CALL FOR ARTISTS

Time to team up with the Glasgow International Comedy Festival and put on a real rib tickler of an art show. This is an open call for artists to submit artwork for inclusion in an exhibition celebrating some of Scotland's favourite comics, renowned patter and turn of phrase. Your work will sit alongside that of some very specially invited artists, and art from some of the festival comics themselves!

This is an exhibition with a real difference, which will run throughout the festival from 8-25th March 2018, and will coincide with a very special month of activity in the gallery.

How to submit

1. Paint/draw/create something that captures one of Scotland's favourite comics (past or present) in a special or unmistakable way; or uses the renowned Scottish patter and turn of phrase to create something that screams for attention. Nothing is off limits as we want this exhibition to capture what the festival is all about.
2. Email gallery@artpistol.co.uk with a photo of the piece, sizes and any info you'd like to share about your work. Plus an indication of the artwork sale price.
3. Closing date for submissions is Friday 19th January 2018.
4. Any questions? Email us at gallery@artpistol.co.uk or call 0141 339 2834.

CALL FOR COMICS

We're looking for pages torn from your notebooks, doodles on napkins, one liners scribbled across old train tickets, basically anything written or drawn that will give folk a small insight into your world or process. And nothing is off limits here! We're then going to put these on display as part of the Glasgow International Comedy Festival Art Show at the Art Pistol gallery in Glasgow during the festival, and sell them! With all proceeds going to MND (Motor Neurone Disease) Scotland.

Contact gallery@artpistol.co.uk to get more info or involved.
